

בעז"ה
With the Help of Hashem

Be it known that on _____ 57____, corresponding to _____, _____, in _____, _____, the undersigned convened a beit din (rabbinical court) in accordance with the requirements of Torah law and Jewish tradition.

In the presence of this beit din, a pledge was made by _____ of _____, to uphold the Seven Universal Noahide Laws which were given by God to Noah as a binding set of laws for all mankind, and were revealed by Moshe. The details of the observance of these laws has been preserved, clarified and expounded upon by the sages of Israel from generation to generation.

The Seven Basic Noahide Laws:

- The Prohibition Against Idolatry in all Forms*
- The Prohibition Against Blasphemy*
- The Prohibition Against Murder*
- The Prohibition Against Theft*
- The Prohibition Against Sexual Immorality*
- The Prohibition Against Eating the Limb of a Living Animal*
- The Commandment to Establish Courts of Justice*

Adherence to these Laws, professed out of an understanding that they were originally commanded to all mankind, and subsequently are a manifestation of the Sinai Revelation, and bequeathed to all humanity through the Torah of Moshe, grants a non-Jew the status of Righteous Gentile.

The Pledge Declares:

"I pledge my allegiance to HaShem, God of Israel, Creator and King of the Universe, and to His Torah. I hereby pledge that I adhere to the Seven Laws of Noah and I furthermore pledge to continue to uphold these laws in all their details, according to the Oral Law of Moshe under the guidance of the rabbis. Blessed are You God, King of the universe, who has caused me to live, sustained me, and brought me to this day."
